

www.kswsweden.org

We like good news but right now we're more interested in the truth

Embarrassing stuff that the church knows about you may stop you from leaving

People going up the bridge (a gradient raising of awareness) with the Church of Scientology are getting confessionals. At the very top of the bridge these confessionals are delivered in abundance.

People confess things during these confessionals.

Also during regular auditing (therapy sessions) you can get into areas of your life that are embarrassing to you, and in order to get through them you need to tell these things to the auditor (counsellor).

Now let us say you become critical to the church management and you want to leave: Having confessed to things that you have done, harmful acts, criminal acts, embarrassing acts etc. you will surely worry about the things that the church knows about you - will they tell others? Will the church tell your friends what you did?

I had this simple realization yesterday as I was having a sauna that there are those who wish to leave the church these days, but don't because of the embarrassing stuff that the church knows about them. This is truly a sad situation.

Tunedal
26 oct 2010

The independents will go on:
http://www.kswsweden.org/rathbun\_scientology\_eng3.pdf