

If you had a daughter who ran away and started to behave like a criminal you would probably complain about this, but what if you knew that she spent most of her time with a criminal drug addict who you believed influenced her into behaving badly, then you would probably handle it differently. You don't want to shut the door on her. You want her to know that she can always come home.

A few Scientologists who comment on blogs and forums tend to call names and ridicule Int-personnel.

I believe this serves no purpose and it could make it tougher for those who are so attacked to get away from Miscavige.

I believe the ridicule and the name calling is creating a ridge between the independents and the Sea Org. I believe in assigning the condition but still try to treat people with respect. There's so many hardworking, good staffmembers still in the Sea Org and they will eventually be friends of ours as we work together as they have gotten away from the influence of Miscavige. Let's show open arms and realize that these people are acting out Miscavige's intention. Maybe they will feel that they have an option.
