Yes, we like good news but right now we're more interested in the truth

The St. Andrew Club house:
Once you're a member you can behave like a jerk.

There are conditions for those who wants to be a member of the independents but you can really do what you want with it once you got your membership card. You can't get kicked out. Independents don't work together as a group and I don't think it is a group. It is more of a club, a discussion club.

There is really no need for organizing the independents. And they will not organize because they will not do stuff together as a group.

It's a club. Friendships are created in this club. There is exchange going on. New friends will form alliances and already this has happened. Activity will spring from these friendships as it has in Sweden and elsewhere.

What I am saying? There are no command channels in the independents and there will never be an org board. If you want to form an org board I suggest you start a group.
